

THE CASE FOR UNIVERSAL BASIC INCOME FEATURING DR. KARL WIDERQUIST

In this public talk, Dr. Karl Widerquist will introduce the simple (yet radical) premise that a small cash income, sufficient for basic needs, ought to be provided regularly and unconditionally to every citizen. Dr. Widerquist discusses how Universal Basic Income (UBI) functions, showing how it differs from other redistributive approaches. He will summarize the common arguments for and against UBI and presents the reasons for believing it is a tremendously important reform.

MAY 17

12:00 - 1:00 p.m. SK (CST - UTC-6)

Attend in-Person (at Station 20 West, 1120 20 St. West, Saskatoon).

Food and refreshments will be provided

Or Online via Zoom

Register for an in-person ticket
(free to attend. Limited seating.)

Register for an online ticket
(free to attend)

DR. KARL WIDERQUIST

Dr. Karl Widerquist is Professor of Philosophy at Georgetown University-Qatar, specializing in distributive justice. The Atlantic calls him "a leader of the worldwide basic income movement." Dr. Widerquist just released his new book, Universal Basic Income: Essential Knowledge